DRAMATIC WOMEN

Single Asian Female (2022)

“Dramatic Women is such a vibrant and dynamic group and I’m grateful for their support in bringing Julia to South Australian audiences by recognising how important it is to produce and present stories about women from all walks of life.” – Justine Clarke

Dramatic Women is a vibrant community of women passionate about supporting outstanding female lead creatives –playwrights and directors – to present work with State Theatre Company South Australia.

The group helps to ensure that the Company’s program reflects and represents diverse female voices and experience.

Dramatic Women was first established in 2002 by former Artistic Director Rosalba Clemente, herself a pioneering leader in Australian theatre and the Company’s first female artistic director.

In the two decades since the group was created, it has stewarded the work of over 100 female writers and directors to the stage, including veteran artists such as Robyn Archer and Sue Smith, through to (then) emerging artists such as Rita Kalnejais, Lally Katz, Nikki Bloom and Michelle Law.

When Rosalba welcomed the first Dramatic Women, she said, “I dream of the theatre being full of women from all backgrounds and ages.” Twenty years on, we are proud and grateful to have the continued support of a highly committed group of Dramatic Women championing the voices of female artists.

Bringing ambitious work to the stage requires a great deal of creative development. Your membership of Dramatic Women will ensure that female lead creatives are well supported in their artistic journeys and that South Australia plays a crucial part in the theatre work of Australia’s leading female artists. Dramatic Women is a group open to women from all ages and backgrounds.
